Pretty Barrhead Wedding

A pretty wedding was solemnized in St. Mary's Anglican Church in Barrhead on Saturday, Nov. 1, when Doreen Katherine Stromquist of Barrhead exchanged vows with Milton Lawrence of Freedom, Alta. The bride is the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. Stromquist of Barrhead. Rev. D. V. A. Brown officiated at the ceremony.

Given in marriage by Mr. Gordon Bennet, the bride, was dressed in a white dress with a veil. The dress was lace-topped, with a nylon net over a taffeta skirt.

Attending the bride was Miss June Penner in pink nylon net, and Miss Ann Stromquist in blue nylon net over taffeta.

Attending the groom were Mr. Wilmer Carlson, and Mr. Eric Johnson. Capt. Harris played the wedding music.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. Anderson with Mrs. Carlson receiving the guests. Mrs. Carlson wore a green suit. Following the reception a dance was held in the Freedom hall.

The young couple will take up residence in Barrhead.

Pretty Wedding Solemnized

DONATVILLE — A very pretty wedding was solemnized on Nov. 14 in the Roman Catholic Church in Donatville, when Miss Amelia Kazmierczak of Blue Jay, and Walter Corse of Grassland, were United in marriage.

The bride was beautiful in her white lace gown and veil, and bouquet of roses.

Her bridesmaids were in mauve of different shades. They were Miss Dorothy Shwaub of Athabasca, and Miss Pauline Ilmnicki of Blue Jay.

The best men were Donald Corse, brother of the groom, and Ted Kazmierczak, brother of the bride. The church was filled with friends and relatives. Father Rakowski of Athabasca performed the ceremony and celebrated Mass afterwards. Mr. Leo Duplessis played the organ and the Donatville Choir sang hymns suitable to the occasion.

The happy couple were showered with confetti as they came out of the church doorway. They then went on to Boyle to have their portraits taken. A bounteous reception followed in the Grassland Hall for about 200 guests.

The bride's horseshoe-shaped table was decorated with vases of yellow and bronze chrysanthemums. The usual toasts were given, after which the tables were cleared and the presentation followed. Many beautiful gifts were received, also a large sum of money. The dance started at 10 p.m. with Joe Hutzel's Orchestra in attendance. There was a large crowd, and midnight lunch was served.

Mr. and Mrs. Corse will be at home to their friends on 102 St., next to the hall.

New X-Ray Unit Presented

A $10,000 chest X-ray unit was presented to the University hospital by the Alberta Tuberculosis Association. The machine is one of 20 placed in Alberta hospitals by the Association.

1953 DODGE REGENT HAS LONG, LOW LINES

The new 1953 Dodge Regent 4-door sedan, reported as being new in seventy-five ways, is a lower, wider-looking car without in any way sacrificing road clearance, head room or leg room. The low sweeping line of the front fender carries straight through to the rear, accentuated by the tasteful use of chrome speed lines. The new, modern curved, one-piece windshield and wide, wrap-around rear window, combine with knee-level seating to give driver and passengers excellent vision in all directions. Six popular body styles are available in the Regent and Crusader series in a wide variety of body colour and interior trim choices.

AMATEUR NIGHT INCREASES SKATING RINK FUND

LAC LA BICHE—Various organizations and individuals have been active during the past two months in raising money for the erection of a skating rink here. Last Friday, Nov. 21, a successful Amateur Program and dance was held in the Memorial Hall sponsored by the Lions club with the co-operation of the Canadian Legion and the Lac la Biche Public and High schools. All proceeds for the sale of tickets for this entertainment were turned over to the Skating Rink Fund.

The program commenced at 8:30 p.m. with Rev. Doug. Greenough acting as M.C. Judges were Miss Jeannette Clark, music teacher, and Mr. A. Salinger, high school teacher. The program included fourteen contestants contributing a variety of songs, dances, skits and musical arrangements.

First prize of $10 was given as a tie between Rita and Johnny Maccagno, brother and sister, who performed separately. Rita's prize-winning number was a song and dance, "Prett Baby". Rita is just seven years old and looked very dainty in a little blue spangled ballerina costume. Johnny's number was a rendition of "On the Bayou" or "Goodbye Joe". Dressed in a comical costume that resembled that of an Italian fruit vendor, he had the audience in stitches and was certainly showing his ability as a performer until the last verse, when he had trouble keeping his moustache on and singing at the same time. Johnny is twelve and in grade seven.

Second prize of $7.50 was awarded to Ida Langevin for her vocal solo "May the Good Lord Bless and Keep You". Ida is 11 and in grade seven. Third prize of $5.00 went to Sonia Sawchuk, a high school student. She did a very beautiful rendition of "The Holy City".

The consolation prize for something different went to Colett Langevin, 12. Girard Langevin, eight, and Donald Michetti, eight, who put on a small skit called "The Dumb Twins". It was a hilarious little comedy that drew a good many laughs.

While the judges were making their decision, the audience was treated to a musical interlude. Miss Gale Hayduk and Miss Dorothy Hall supplied piano solos, and Mr. Toni Varze contributed three Italian songs which were very well sung, "ie Ni Sulmar" (Come to the Sea), "O Sole Mio" (There's No Tomorrow), and "La Donna Mobile" (The Woman Is Fickle).

After the Amateur Hour a dance was held with music supplied by the Plamondon orchestra, completing a very enjoyable and successful evening.

Woman Files $45,000 Claim

EDMONTON—A statement of claim for $45,000 was filed Wednesday by a woman claiming damages as a result of the Leduc Hotel explosion which took 10 lives November 11, 1950.

The claim brings to more than $200,000 the damages asked in suits arising from the blast which will be heard by the Supreme Court during January.

Wednesday's claimant, Hertha Hubner, a dishwasher at the hotel, was one of about 16 persons injured in the blast. Her action is against Wilfred J. Gray, chief engineer for Leduc Utilities Ltd., Reginald M. Rault, Edmonton plumber, and Frederick Takarek, Leduc laborer.

All the pending claims allege that natural gas was seeping into the hotel from an unfinished gas system being installed in Leduc. It is expected the hearings will last three or four weeks. Most of the claims also list Leduc Utilities and the contracting firm of Wilson and Wilson as defendants.

Egged On

STORRS, Conn.—If you want plenty of eggs from your hens, put a red light in the poultry house. Air raid regulations blacked out the brilliantly-lighted poultry houses along the New Jersey coast, according to S. C. Plat, Rutgers University poultry expert, and so farmers turned on dim red lights to let the hens see how to eat and drink. The red light had a tendency to keep the hens longer on the nests. Egg production rose and since then, experiments have confirmed the red light's effect on hens.

Profits should be removed from war, but never have been, and are being piled up today.

Practical Illustration

A youngster asked his father how wars began.

"Well," said the pater, "suppose America quarreled with England and—"

"But," interrupted the mother, "America mustn't quarrel with England."

"I know," he answered, "but I am taking a hypothetical instance."

"You are misleading the child," said the mother.

"No, I am not," he answered.

"Yes, you are."

"I tell you I am not! It's outrageous—"

"All right, dad," said the boy. "don't get excited, I think I know how wars begin."

Feminine Logic

Two women were having a chat and the conversation veered around to the high cost of living.

"It's really terrible how the rise in prices has affected us," said one, sadly. "Why, do you know that my bills for clothes this year are exactly double what they were last year?"

"Goodness!" gasped the other. "I don't see how your husband can afford it."

"He can't," replied the first calmly. "But, then, he couldn't afford it last year either, so what's the difference?"

A Sensible Change In School Division Meetings

During the first week in December Annual Meetings of School Divisions will be held throughout the Province. In previous years a separate meeting has been called for each sub-division. This year, for the first time, sub-divisions are being grouped in geographic sections and as many as six sub-divisions will hold their meetings in the same hall at the same time.

For instance, in Holden one annual meeting will be called for all six sub-divisions in the School Division. The Sturgeon School Division has reduced the number of meetings from six last year to two this year.

In the days of the little red school house, travel facilities were limited and so was the accommodation for meetings. Today, citizens interested in the important business of their children's education, can drive in a matter of minutes from one end of the School Division to another. When they get to the meeting place they can convene their general assembly meetings and individual sub-division nominations in auditoriums and separate rooms of the same modern school building.

We congratulate the new Minister of Education, A. A. Aalborg, on putting into effect this new system of calling School Division meetings. It will go a long way towards helping all ratepayers get a better understanding of the problems, needs and accomplishments of their schools.

A further suggestion we'd like to make: Why not arrange for a ladies' church or institute group to serve tea and cake during or at the conclusion of the meetings? There is no reason why a spirit of friendly social conviviality shouldn't be fostered once a year in the interests of good relations between the school authorities and the parents of the children.

A Month For Meteors

This is the month for the shooting stars, which in ancient times, were thought to represent all sorts of signs and indications. Science has determined that these streaks of light in the sky are the result of solid particles of matter from outer space. These particles travel through space at tremendous speeds but do not "light up" because of the lack of air resistance encountered in these space voids.

However, when these particles crash into our atmosphere, the rim of gas which surrounds the earth—a high degree of friction is generated and the matter is heated to extreme temperatures. The meteors actually burn the air they encounter and thus the red-hot matter accounts for the fiery streaks seen in the sky.

In case you are interested, the two principal meteor showers this month were the Taurid meteors and Leonid meteors, which reached their maximum numbers early in the month. The names are derived from the fact that they seem to diverge from the constellations of Taurus the Bull and Leo the Lion.

In addition to these meteors, there are many others during the month which can be observed in any section of the country every clear night.

How to Loaf for a Living

By T. W. PUE

Living without having to work is a dream that has excited humans throughout the ages. I always have maintained that I prefer the newspaper business to working for a living, yet will gladly exchange any day this desk for a boat and this typewriter for a rod and reel.

As a boy I used to spend a great deal of time on the farm, and can say I did my share of chores around the milk house, chicken house and barns. Seems, though, that I was born 25 years too soon because, according to a pamphlet put out by the Canadian Bank of Commerce, a lot of this work was and is unnecessary and may actually be harmful—to the cows—of all people!

T. W. PUE

BARN WITHOUT STALLS

The newest idea in barns is not to have partitions or stalls in the cowshed. You don't build an expensive hay loft. You don't have to keep your cows locked by their necks and heads in stanchions. You don't carry the feed and water to the cows. You don't walk over to the cow to milk her. Work is eliminated from winter care of cows.

Instead you let your milk cows roam the interior of the barn at will. When you give them feed you simply drop a bale or two of hay or other feed inside the door and let Bossie come and get it. Water is provided in one end of the barn in a trough just like you provide in summer in the barnyard.

The Bank of Commerce says that cows lead happier, more contented lives when they are not regimented into stalls and stanchions. Besides, what of yourself? You can spend the time loafing except at milking time. Then, you simply have the milk cows walk into the milking shed attached to the barn, and one by one they walk up to the automatic milking machine, patiently wait until the machine does its job, and walk back to the main portion of the barn. No longer do you have to carry the machine to the cows, they come to where the machine is.

SEMI-ANNUAL FERTILIZER DAYS

Not more than twice a year you clamber aboard the tractor with the automatic loader and "excavate" the production of manure from the barn. No more daily "barn cleanings" for you!

Here's what the Michigan report says: "To handle dairy cattle in a pen-type barn requires that one provide six separate and distinct areas. These are: (1) a milk house, (2) a milking parlor, (3) a 'lounging area,' (4) a feeding area, (5) an area for freshening cows and young calves, and (6) an area for young stock. The last two of these may be in a building separate from the dairy herd.

"The pen-type barn should be provided with open exposure to the south or east and the doors should be kept open at all times. The cows should be fed in a paved area outside of the lounging area, and hay should be kept in front of them at all times. If silage is included in the feeding program, it should be fed to them once a day only. The cows should be grained while they are being milked. Unless the requirements are acceptable one should not attempt to employ loose housing for the dairy herd. If the system is accepted along with the practices necessary to make it work, the authors feel that the advantages far outweigh the disadvantages."

You can see there is nothing revolutionary about this system except that it saves a lot of work. You can fill a self-feeder two or three times a week, thus bringing the cattle to the feed instead of bringing feed to the cattle every day. And you milk in the milking parlor, instead of carrying milk from the stalls to the milk house.

There are other advantages too. You can increase your herd without remodeling the barn. You don't have to clean out the barn every day, cleaning is only done once or twice a year. You get more and better manure for your soil. Costly items such as stanchions, insulation, ventilation, and individual drinking cups are not necessary. The report also found there was less teat, udder and leg injury.

One of the most important factors is that a stanchion-type barn must be built warmly enough to keep a temperature around 45 to 50 degrees in winter. With a loafing barn, cattle must be allowed to run loose. But there is no evidence to indicate that warm quarters are necessary for high production. In loafing barns cattle get more exercise and have a better appetite for roughage.

You can easily get details on the layout and construction of loose housing barns. Consult the extension services department of your provincial department of agriculture or the engineering department at your nearest agricultural college.

Since pen-type barns are cold housing, construction can be cheaper. In fact, some new barns are being built without a masonry foundation. These are "pole barns," supported on a number of large poles, like telegraph poles, sunk five feet into the ground. Some idea like this may have to be adopted to bring down the cost of new farm buildings.

1953 Dodge, Featuring New Styling, Now On Display Throughout Canada

Featuring completely new styling, (longer, lower, wider-looking), and providing what is claimed to be a new, smoother, steadier ride, the new 1953 Dodge Regent and Crusader models are now on display at Dodge-DeSoto dealers throughout Canada. These new Dodge models have not just been changed or "face-lifted," they're entirely new and different, according to officials of Chrysler Corporation of Canada, Limited.

There's a new, wider frame and new spring suspension that are claimed to result in a more level, road-hugging ride and greatly improved cornering ability.

Bodies are low, wider and more compact, yet there is actually more room inside than in previous models. For instance, the back seat is a full 8 inches wider—there is more head room and leg room. front and back. Long, sweeping fenders accentuate the long, low look. the rear fenders blending smoothly into the continental-type rear deck. This wider, lower rear deck permits a much wider rear deck lid and consequently increased useable trunk space.

Glass area is greatly increased with a new one-piece windshield, optically curved for minimum distortion; higher side windows and a wider, wrap-around rear window. With chair-high seats allowing comfortable upright seating, this bigger glass area results in excellent vision for driver and passengers.

Some idea of the "newness" of these new Dodge models can be judged from the manufacturer's claim of 75 new design and engineering features—many of which are major changes. A few of the most important new features are: "K" type rear doors on 4-door sedans for more room entering or leaving; one-piece windshield; reduced overall height; new frame design, wider and lower; new spring position which gives additional resistance to twist; 30% more trunk capacity; belt line lowered 3 1/2 inches allowing deeper windows; the engine has been moved forward for better ride; glove box located in centre of instrument panel; pull-type door handles; narrower "A" posts for better vision; new parking ease as overall length has been reduced. Eight standard body colors are offered, with two metallic colors at extra cost. In addition 16 two-tone combinations are available in production at extra cost.

The following models will be available: In the Dodge Crusader line—a four-door sedan and the Suburban; in the Dodge Regent

LETTERS TO LOUISA

Dear Louisa:

I am a young married woman with two children. I have a good husband who works hard but we seem to have so little fun. We can't afford help so my days are taken up with cleaning, cooking and nursing. My husband is tired when night comes so we listen to the radio a while and read or go on to bed. I feel as though I had got into a rut and am going around and getting nowhere.
What can I do to brighten up our lives?

G. R.

Answer:

Many young mothers feel just as you do but you have no idea how quickly the years will pass and the children will be old enough to have their own interests and allow you and your husband to do the things you are missing now.

You also have on thing to be very thankful for. Your husband is considerate and kind for he doesn't leave you alone at night when the children keep you at home. Some men seem to think that it is the wife's business to care for the children while they are free to roam around.

You say that you listen to the radio and read—well, a few years of that won't do either of you any harm. Is there a drive-in theatre near you? If so whenever there is a good movie on, put the children in the car and let them sleep through it while you have a bit of recreation.

A plan, worked out by two young couples, that has proved satisfactory is that each one takes care of the other's children once a week. This certainly does add zest to living for they both look forward to that one free evening each week.

One bright sunny morning I was bringing in firewood. I saw a car turn into the driveway and was positive it was my cousin. I couldn't see in the car because the sun was shining on the windshield. I made a face and shook a block of wood at the man in the car. Boy—was I embarrassed when a stranger stepped out of the car and asked if he could get some water.

Wabamun, Alta.

A neighbor phoned to ask if I would go to the movies with her that evening. I fibbed that I would have liked to go with her, but that I was going visiting with Mrs.
R— and that we were on our way out at that moment.

"Is that so?" snapped my neighbor. "Well, Mrs. R— is with me now and I'm sure not seeing an apparition either!"

Remembrance Day Services Held

GIBBONS — Veterans of three generations of service and their families combined in a day-long observance and celebration on Remembrance Day. Led by the Highland Pipers of Edmonton, a parade fell-in at 10:45 a.m., with the veterans of the Gibbons Branch of the Canadian Legion and the Ladies' Auxiliary, Air Cadets and Girl Guides. Prior to the service, they marched to the cenotaph followed by a large gathering, where a service was held and the traditional two minutes' silence was observed and "Last Post" sounded. The parade then continued, led by the Pipers to the Gibbons "Community Hall" where services were conducted. The hall was filled to capacity for the service. Rev. G. A. Saunders of the United Church gave a most enlightening service for the occasion, assisted by Rev. A. G. Hooper of the Anglican Church.

After the services a smoker was held at the Legion Hut for members and guests, and the occasion ended with a dance in the evening, to which a large crowd turned out.
